

When I walked into the classroom there was a hard test so I unpacked my backpack and ran to my seat. The teacher said it will take all day. I said WHAT!!! That is so long but I had to do it because it was very important. It will make my score go super high and my parents would be so proud but it still takes so long. So i started trying to get everything correct so i could get a good grade and not a bad grade once it was the end of the day i wasn't done yet. But the teacher said you can finish tomorrow. I said yes I was half way through so the next day I did everything I did from last night. I unpacked my backpack and ran to my seat and started to do the test at 1:00. I was finished. I was so happy and I said let's look at my grade. It was 98/100. It was such a good grade. I have proved myself to be smart but the next day we had a test that was not so long but it was twenty pages i said ugh again so many tests. But I got to work and still got a good grade but not the same as last time it was 100/100. IT WAS THE BEST GRADE I EVER GOT. I got so happy I ran 10 laps around the school and didn't get tired until the tenth lap. So I took a break because I ran so hard I fell some times but kept on going. When we got to class I said give me as many tests as you can. I got 10/10 20/21 100/100 14/15 so many grades that are great. I was going to scream so hard at recess all of the kids covered their ears. I screamed the best grade ever. I loved tests. But the next day, the hardest test ever, I got 50/100. I said that is not my grade so I was relieved and it said 90/100. I said okay, that's pretty good. And i said last test please no the teacher my friends said ugh and so did i until the next day no tests. Yayyy no test today but when everyone was happy because no test the teacher said we do have a lot of assignments today make sure you get them done and you will get a treat i said okay if you get a good grade. I said okay but what kind of candy 10 jumbos I said wow so i did the test the teacher said unless you get 90/100 or more and I did then it was spring break and got so happy i ran to the bus and say by by school and see you next year.

The end by Riley Leo